

THE CENTRAL RECORD.

PURE RELIGION, UNBARNISHED DEMOCRACY AND GOOD GOVERNMENT.

LANCASTER, KY., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1914.

TWENTY FOURTH YEAR.

NUMBER 40.

WE THANK YOU

for your liberal patronage and support given us in the past year.

Our increased business has necessitated quite a number of improvements which has been done.

We are now prepared to supply all your wants in

Plumbing and General Hardware

We ask and will appreciate your future patronage and trust 1914 will prove a prosperous year for you.

CONN BROTHERS.

Live and Let Live Folks

Pinhookers are not "hooking" much these days.

Few New Year resolutions will stand
the summer's heat.

Again, we wish you, and all of you,
a Happy, Prosperous New Year.

No one is overdressed these days
but quite a few are under dressed.

Mrs. Hetty Green says that eating onions is the secret of health. What we want to know is, how does she keep the secret.

Kentucky is in debt $2,500,000 and owes the National Government $1,345, 300. What will our $10. a day legislators do about this.

It was an Italian that put Mona Lisa under his blouse and walked off with her and so for two years she who has dwelt in a royal palace has shared his dirty garret. We hope it didn't effect her smile.

Mr. Beckham Withdraws From Law Firm.

Announcement was made last week of the dissolution of the firm of Mc-Quown and Beckham and that Mr.
Beckham has given up his law practice for the L. & N. railroad. He will probably devote his time principally to his race for the United States senate.

Turkey Drawing At Opera House.

The drawing of the three prizes at the picture show last Friday night drew a large crowd and created much interest. Two turkeys were given away and a dollar in cash by the enterprising proprietor, Mr. W. J. Romans.
Dr. J. M. Acton held the lucky number and drew the choice turkey, while Miss Lucy Marsee, drew the second prize turkey, the third prize was won by a colored brother in the gallery and he of course was very much elated.

Royal Welsh Ladies Choir Pleases Large Audience.

That Lancaster people appreciate good music, was evidenced by the fact that a large and appreciated audience greeted the Royal Welsh Ladies Choir
last Wednesday night. It had been proclaimed as a fine organization, and they made good all that had been said of them. The choir is unique in a way, being a finely balanced and fully equipped collection of women singers, with a woman as conductor, who directed her chorus with dignity and intelligence. The soloists were received with applause and the chorus work was a revelation of fine singing that the musically inclined people in the audience will not soon forget.

One of our New Year resolutions is not to lend over $10000, at any one time to any one friend.

Fifty Seven Burials.

Mr. Solon B. Henry reports that there were fifty seven burials in the Lancaster cemetery in the year 1913.

Attractive Bargains.

On another page of this issue appears an attractive advertisement of Sanders Brothers, the popular and up-to-date merchants of Coy. These gentlemen announce that they are overstocked and are positively closing out bargains that will pay any one to ride miles to see. Give them a trial and they will convince you.

Nothing Gained By Printing A Lie.

Honesty of purpose and the determination to carry that purpose into effect, is the reputation we hope to give the Record. The decent newspaper wants to print the truth. There is nothing to be gained by printing a lie.
A lie is a business boomerang. A newspaper reputation for reliability is its stock in trade. Inaccuracy is a cardinal sin. There are black sheep in every flock and the newspaper profession has no monopoly of the pure in heart.

Mr. A. B. Robertson Dies Suddenly In Danville.

Friends and patrons of the firm of A.
B. Robertson and Brother, will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Alfred B.
Robertson, senior partner of the firm,
who died suddenly at his home on Wednesday night. He was born in 1848 and was a life long and consistent member of the Presbyterian church.
He never married but is survived by two sisters and one brother.

New County Officials Qualify.

All the county official elected at the November election qualified last Monday before County clerk Hamilton and Circuit clerk Mason, were immediately sworn in and assumed their official duties.

Our county officials now consist of the following:
C. A. Arnold, ..... County Judge.
G. C. Walker, ..... County Attorney.
C. A. Robinson, ..... Sheriff.
J. W. Hamilton, ..... County Clerk.
David Ross, ..... Jailer.
Dave Sanders, ..... Assessor.
Jno. N. White, ..... Magistrate.
Logan Leon, ..... Magistrate.
John Ham, ..... Magistrate.
J. W. Coldiron, ..... Magistrate.
Jas. A. Jones, ..... Coroner.

Leave orders for Magazines at Stormes Drug Store.
Mrs. Dolly Brown.

This Is Funny.

The little boy was on his knees in his little night dress saying his prayers, and his little sister couldn't resist the temptation to tickle the soles of his feet. He stood it as long as he could and then said: "Please God, excuse me, while I knock the stuffing out of Nellie."

Rings And Rings.

The church bell how its melodies
ring, as its tones vibrate and linger.
The fashionable belle, with a beau on her string, has a beautiful ring on her finger. A political ring is a very bad thing—it scoops in the fool and the scholar; but so pleasing a ring has no earthly thing as the ring of the hard silver dollar.

We Have Some Here.

An exchange truthfully remarks that "there are too many people in almost every town who will not cast their bread upon the waters, unless assured beforehand that it will come again in a few days a full grown sandwich, all trimmed with ham, butter and mustard, rolled up in a warranty deed for one half the earth and a mortgage on the other half."

Judge C. A. Arnold Does The Judicial

Ermine And Trys His First Case.

Arthur Spilman a colored man about 40 years of age was tried before County Judge Arnold and adjudged insane by a jury and sent to the Asylum at Lexington last Monday. This was Judge Arnold's initial case and he seemed quite at ease on the bench and presided with much dignity. Mr. J. L. West escorted Spilman to Lexington Tuesday.

Postmasters Instructed On Parcel Post Rates.

About 60,000 postmasters have received information as to the changes in parcel post rates and regulations, effective January 1st. The order provides for a reduction of rates in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth zones, and for an increase of the weight limit to fifty pounds on parcels mailed for delivery in the first and second zones.

After March 16 next, books shall be embraced in the fourth class of mail, regular zone rates being applied to parcels of books weighing over eight ounces. Parcels of eight ounces or less will be required to pay one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

Boyle.

Squire Richard Boyle, age 78 years,
and one of the oldest citizens of Lancaster, died at his home on Crab Orchard St. last Sunday afternoon, after a short illness of acute indigestion and was buried in the Lancaster cemetery at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, after short services at the grave by Rev. S. H. Politt. Squire Boyle was born in Washington county and came to Lancaster when about twenty years of age. He had lived here nearly fifty years and was familiarly and well known by all. As a man he was industrious, honest and plain-spoken.
He possessed a remarkable memory and many turned to him for incidents of early Garrard county history. He was a straight-forward man, a good citizen. He was brusque in his manner, but was a warm hearted, devoted friend to those whom he liked. His wife died about four years ago, but he is survived by eight children; Mrs.
Ossie Sisk, Mrs. Chas. Scott, Misses
Maggie and Hulda Boyle and Messrs.
Nathan, Lee, Oscar and Henry Boyle.

Kentucky Beef Cattle Association To Meet At Elmdorf.

Invitations are being issued by Mr.
C. H. Berryman, President of the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association, to attend its next meeting at Elmdorf, on January 10th. One of the main features of this meeting is to compare on foot and on the block, a well bred fat steer, with a fat steer of inferior breeding. These two steers will be slaughtered at the Elmdorf abattoir, after which a comparison of the two carcasses will be made, as well as of cuts of meat from each carcass. Mr.
Dan Combs, of the Lespedeza Stock Farm, of Tenn. will be one of the speakers, while Mr. M. O. Hughes of Bowling Green, will speak on the "Utilization of different roughages on the farm in steer feeding operations, as well as the value of Manure made from the same". Mr. Hughes has made a decided success in the steer feeding business. Prof. Louis D. Hall, of the University of Illinois, will demonstrate the slaughtering of these steers. Mr. Thomas Green, the popular live stock commission merchant of Cincinnati, will discuss, "The kind of steers to produce for the market in the future". The meeting will no doubt be largely attended and prove quite instructive. Special cars will leave Lexington at 10 o'clock on January 10th, for Elmdorf.

I now have Dr. T. M. Saymans Vegetable Wonder Soap, on sale at Mrs.
Josephs. So any one wanting same can get it there. Katie Royston Flatwoods, Ky.

Time Is Precious.

Learn to be short. Long visits, long stories, long exhortations, and long prayers seldom profit those who have to do with them. Life is short. Time is short. Moments are precious.

Judge Charles A. Hardin, of Har-rodsburg, who presides over the Circuit Court bench in the Mercer-Boyle-Garrard-Lincoln judicial district, has returned home after spending a few days in Louisville and attending the meetings of the Circuit Judges of the State. Judge Hardin will open the January term of the Boyle Circuit Court at Danville next Monday. The name of Judge Hardin has been often mentioned in connection with the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.—
Louisville Times.)

Dr. Chris Farris Remembers Us.

The Denver Post with seventy nine pages was mailed to us last week by Dr. Chris Farris, a former Lancastrian, but now an enthusiastic resident of Denver, Col. The paper is well gotten up and is quite a credit to the town and state and is just what a paper should be, a booster for its town and state from the first page to its last.
We were a little disappointed that it did not mention the severe snow storm that has held that city in its clutches for a month or more, but it speaks in gloving terms of its "mild winters, cool summers, mountain breezes and sunshine the year 'round" and incidentally "The play ground of the nation", never mentioning the fact that Dr. Farris had to have four teams to pull his automobile out of the snow, while endeavoring to haul a few sacks
of coal to his residence.

Pierce.

The death of Mrs. Frank Pierce, which occurred in Louisville Friday, came as a shock to her friends and relatives throughout the county. Mrs.
Pierce, before her marriage, was Miss Lucile Eubanks, of Boyle county, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Eubanks. About five months ago she was married to Mr. Frank Pierce, formerly of Lancaster, but since their marriage have resided in Louisville.
She had been ill only a short time and death was due to pneumonia. The remains were taken to the residence of Senator R. L. Hubble in Stanford from which place the burial took place last Sunday. The sympathy of the Record, as well as the entire community is extended to the parents and to the bereaved young husband.

Fox.

Miss Ora May Fox, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Fox, died at the home of her parents on East Main street, last night, after a four weeks illness of inflammatory rheumatism.
While her death was momentarily expected for the past week, the news that she had passed away cast a gloom over the entire community, as no young lady in the city was held in higher regard or had more true and loving friends. Her modest disposition readily endeared her to all and her presence radiated sunshine and love wherever she went. She had been ill for over a month, and while her sufferings were at times almost unbearable, she bore them with a courage that was noble and inspiring. She was in the eighteenth year of her age
—Danville Advocate.

NEWSPAPER MEN

Enjoy Interesting Meeting At Lexington.

One of the most enjoyable meetings ever held, the annual mid-winter meeting of the Kentucky Press Association held at Lexington last week.

Every speech on the interesting program urged progression as the key note for this year. Many new ideas were obtained from the well prepared addresses of both women and men.
The meetings were held in the Phoenix Hotel ball room and proved an ideal place. Lexington of course did herself proud and many were the compliments heard upon her genuine cordiality.

On Monday night a large ball was given in honor of the meeting and on Tuesday the entire association was the guest of the Herald and Leader at a beautiful appointed luncheon. Dawson Springs was selected as the place for the mid-summer meeting, and the date was fixed for June 8th.

Hon. A. O. Stanley To Speak In Stanford Next Monday.

Hon. A. O. Stanley will address the democracy of Lincoln and adjoining counties at Stanford, next Monday, County Court day. Politics is getting a little warm in these parts just now, and Mr. Stanley's appearance at this time will no doubt attract a large crowd.

Judge Prather If You Please.

Judge J. P. Prather, who was elected Police Judge at the November election, qualified on Monday evening, is now warning the chair of that "honorable position, with headquarters at the Police Court room. Our hats are off to you, Judge Prather.

Blind Horse Runs Amuck And Does $250.

Damage. Store Front Demolished.

A blind horse worth about twenty dollars and attached to a three dollar buggy belonging to one Steve Owsley colored, of Hubble, became frantic from some unknown cause, made a wild dash through the public square landing in the store room of Jas. W.
Smith completely demolishing the entire place glass front and seriously injuring itself, last Monday morning.
The noise from the crash of the broken glass could be heard for two squares and created much excitement. Mr.
John Francis was decorating one of the windows at the time and had a very narrow escape from injury by the broken glass. Mr. J. J. Walker was coming out the door as the horse came in and he received a slight cut on his hand. The horse will probably die.
The loss which amounts to about $250,
will fall quite heavy upon Judge L. L.
Walker, who owns the property and had no insurance and for a while will be quite an inconvenience to Mr. Smith.

Moving Vans Do Rushing Business.

the street, Mr. J. H. Farley to the place vacated by Mr. S. G. Haselden, Miss Mattie Estes has moved to the Haselden property vacated by Mr.
Allen Beazley.

New City Council Qualifies And Assumes
Duties.

Last Monday night which was the regular meeting night for the city
"Dads", the old council met and wound up its business for the past year.
Claims against the city were filed and allowed. The old board then passed into history and the new was immediately installed.

The whole proceedings were very informal and the new Mayor, L. G. Davidson, took the chair and presided with the dignity, which to him seemed nothing unusual. They immediately elected the following officers to serve for two years. J. E. Robinson City Attorney,
F. G. Hurt City Clerk, W. F. Champ
City Treasurer, W. D. Hopper Tres.
Sinking Fund, Ed Ross Engineer, and
L. E. Herron, City Marshall, City
Buyer and Supt. of Water Works.
The personnel on the new Board is as follows: Mayor, L. G. Davidson, Councilmen, Dr. J. A. Amon, Wesley Zanone, W. O. Goodloe, Sam Cotton, H.
C. Hamilton, R. P. Gregory. The board, after the appointment of the officers, adjourned to meet next Wednesday night. Financial condition of the city and the disbursements for the year 1913 is now being prepared by the retiring officers and will be printed full in the next issue of the Central Record.

WIRES CUT IN OREGON TOWN

'TIS BELIEVED, BY OFFICER ORDERED BY GOV. WEST TO CLOSE ALL SALOONS.

Col. Lawson's Force Packed Up All Liquor and Saloon Fixtures and Took Them to the Depot.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.
Baker, Ore.—Indications that Col. B. K. Lawson had carried out his threat to tear out the telephone and telegraph instruments at Copperfield appeared here when it was impossible to get in communication with the little mining town either by telegraph or telephone. There will be another posse sent from Baker, Sheriff Rand having declined all offers by volunteers. Deputy Sheriff Herbert will be the sole emissary.

He will go to the mining town and make personal service on Col. Lawson and others named in the complaints and injunctions in the case. Lawson had been sent to Copperfield to close saloons there, and suit has been brought in an attempt to prevent this action. News was received by a roundabout route from Copperfield of an attempt made by two of the officials under arrest to escape. Councilmen Wiegand and Warner seized a gasoline speeder and were starting away on it when stopped by Lawson's men. Col. Lawson's force packed up all the liquor and saloon fixtures in Copperfield and took them to the depot for shipment to Baker on a train.

BILLY SUNDAY IN PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa.—A monster wooden tabernacle, built under the direction of Rev. Billy Sunday's expert builder, houses the immense crowds which are thronging the evangelistic meetings to "clean up on Pittsburg." The choir seats several hundred, and there is ample seating space for 10,000 persons in the great, rambling structure.

According to T. T. Frankenberg, who has just issued a new biography of the evangelist—called "The Spectacular Career of Billy Sunday"—the tabernacle idea was started by him in order to find a local building capable of holding the crowds that daily throng to hear him.

FAILS TO ELUDE CONSTABLE.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—William Bailey, a horse trainer, employed by John D. Rockefeller, tried to enact the role of Washington Irving's "Headless Horseman." Bailey, astride a spirited horse, dashed through Sleepy Hollow and Tarrytown, and when his head was hidden by a great coat he looked the role. But he did not deceive one of the town constables. The latter gave chase. Bailey was thrown from his horse, sustaining numerous injuries to his head and a fractured hip.

INTEREST TURNS TO LEGISLATION

MANY PROPOSED LAWS AWAIT ACTION BY THE KENTUCKY
ASSEMBLY.

RAILROAD BILL IS IN LIST

Child Labor, Tax Reform and School System Prominent Among Subjects of Measures Prepared Which Affect the Public Generally.

(By Ernest W. Helm.)

Frankfort, Ky.—With preliminaries to the session of the general assembly disposed of, public interest has shifted to a flood of legislation which already has been written into bills. Proposed measures that attract early attention cover a wide variety of subjects. Embodied in the list are bills extending the authority of the railroad commission; providing for state control of the traffic in stocks and bonds; prescribing more stringent regulations for saloon licenses; abolishing third-class certificates for school teachers; exacting a license from veterinarians; further regulating child labor; changing the method of forfeiting property for delinquency; affecting public highways; amending the form of commission government and a bill changing the school text book system.

Railroad Bill Defended.

Provisions of the proposed law looking to an extension of the authority of the state railroad commission are championed in a statement issued by Laurence B. Finn, chairman of the body. Mr. Finn denies that this bill is intended "to harass the railroads," and declares that it is based on urgent needs of the state, and designed only to make the railroads fulfill their duties to the public.

He says: "Common carriers are required to furnish reasonably adequate service and facilities and the charges for same shall be reasonable. They shall receive, switch, deliver, store and handle such property in a reasonable manner and for a just and reasonable compensation. All classifications, regulations, rules and practices which are not reasonable, and all services and facilities which are not safe and adequate are declared to be unlawful, and authority is given to the commission to provide a reasonable classification, regulation, rule and practice, and safe and adequate service and facilities."

Veterinary Surgeons' License.

Veterinary surgeons must have a state license in order to practice in this state or be liable to a fine of $50 and imprisonment for two months, if a bill to be introduced becomes a law. The bill provides for a board of four members, appointed by the governor, one of them to be the commissioner of agriculture, and the others to have been practicing veterinary surgeons of good standing for five years and graduates of a school of veterinary surgery. The board is to conduct the first examination the last Monday in August of each year, commencing in August, 1914.

Third-class certificates entitling the holders to teach in the rural schools of this state will be abolished if the amendment to the school law as prepared by Superintendent of Public Instruction Barksdale Hamlett is passed.

In an act to provide for the inspection of all schools it shall be the duty of the superintendent of public instruction or his assistants to report any mismanagement, misconduct or violations of the law, or the wrongful or misuse of any of the state, county or city or district school fund; to report all such violations to the county or the commonwealth's attorney.

"Blue-Sky" Law Ready.

A "blue-sky law," patterned after the Kansas law, controlling the method of selling stocks, bonds and securities, will be introduced at the incoming legislature by Representative Elwood Hamilton, of this city. The bill exempts national and state banks and building associations. In the proposed act all dealers in stocks and bonds are required to take out a license with the state bank commissioner, and heavy penalties, fines of from $1,000 to $5,000 and imprisonment in the penitentiary, are provided for promoters of bogus mining stock, exploiters of insurance companies where too large commission is taken out for the sale of the stock, and, besides, the agents selling the stock are liable a suit for the recovery of the principal and interest. Real estate agents selling real estate outside the state must file an abstract of the title to the property to be sold with the county clerk or they will be guilty of violating the law.

Tax Reform Bill Drawn.

"Tax sharks" are expected to be put out of business by the tax reform bill, drafted by the state tax commission, through a provision changing the manner of forfeiting property for delinquency. Hereafter, if the provision is adopted, property will not be forfeited for non-payment of taxes until the end of five years, and then the title will vest absolutely in the commonwealth. Each year the owner is delinquent the fact will be noted and the property sold, no one but the commonwealth being allowed to bid for it.

State Finances Ranking Issue.

The big question that will confront all the legislators at the coming session of the general assembly, according to Lieut. Gov. E. J. McDermott, has to do with the state's finances. He said he had talked to many of the hold-over senators, and senators-elect, and that he had gathered from them that a strict policy of economy, in the matter of appropriations, is to be carried out.

"Those who will compose the coming session of the legislature," he said, "will be as close in the matter of appropriations as those who composed some of the previous legislatures were liberal."

Aside from the proposed bill revising Kentucky's tax system, Lieut. Gov. McDermott said various other measures of more or less importance will demand the most careful consideration. He said he understood that a number of anti-pass bills were in process of formation for introduction, and that the question of woman suffrage would come in for its share of attention. He advocated the drafting of a bill looking to the elimination of reckless driving of automobiles.

County Commission Bill.

Word comes from Louisville that the legislative committee of the Commercial club has decided not to change the county commission bill with reference to the appointment of the first county commissioners by county judges, which had been criticized. It still favors the appointment of the first commissioners. The committee has issued a statement in which it says: "Inasmuch as the bill is not purely a local or Jefferson county bill, but is state-wide in its application, and will be the bill jointly offered and supported by the state-at-large, the Commercial club's committee should not attempt to change the verdict of the people of the state of Kentucky. Inasmuch as the bill provides for a non-partisan administration of the county's affairs, the committee feels assured that the county judges of the various counties affected will observe the spirit of the bill and make non-partisan appointments."

Prospective Labor Bills.

Amendments to the child labor law, a workmen's compensation act, a law regulating fire escapes, a law requiring the registration of all factories, compulsory reports of all accidents in factories to the commissioner of agriculture and labor, and extension of the free employment bureau are some of the things Commissioner of Agriculture John W. Newman hopes to get from the next legislature.

At a conference in Louisville he sought the co-operation of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, the Consumers' League, the Kentucky Child Labor association, the Ben Franklin club, the Kentucky Manufacturers and Shippers' association, the Woman's Progressive Service league and the Kentucky Federation of Labor. It was agreed that each of the organizations shall be represented by three members at another conference to be held in Frankfort January 12.

Bill Affects Text Books.

A new text-book bill promises to excite wide interest at this session of the legislature. Since 1900 the state adoption has been in vogue, the county boards voting and the action of a majority of them settling the question of text books in all the rural schools of the state. The law has been amended, providing for county adoption, but it has never been put in practice as the last state contract does not expire until this year. A bill will be introduced to change back to the old state adoption system with some modifications.

Autoists Escape Taxation.

Scores of automobile owners are failing to pay the state license on their motor vehicles and the state road fund is losing several thousand dollars a year as the result of a lack of means for ascertaining delinquencies, in the opinion of Thomas Byars, automobile clerk in the secretary of state's office. Mr. Byars said licenses were paid on 7,150 motor vehicles during the year of 1913, and he collected for them $51,302. The present law does not contemplate the employment of inspectors and it is probable that an amendment to the law will be offered.

Hotel Inspection Measure.

Traveling men of Kentucky will make a fight before the session of the general assembly for a hotel inspection bill, requiring hotels to observe rules regarding the comfort and health of their guests, as to change of bed clothing, length of sheets, condition of towels, etc. This law is most urgently demanded by the traveling men, who make the smaller towns, where competition does not automatically bring about reforms.

State's Death Rate Lower.

Mortality statistics just made public by the census bureau show that Kentucky's death rate decreased two-tenths of 1 per cent from 1911 to 1912. The bureau notes the fact that the state has a large number of colored inhabitants, to whom is ascribed the high death rate. Kentucky's rates were: 1911, 13.4; 1912, 13.2. Nine states in the registration area have larger death rates than that of Kentucky, among them Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York and Rhode Island.

To The Tobacco Growers of Garrard and adjoining Counties:

Up to the time we closed our house for the Xmas Holidays, this market had sold about Sixteen Hundred Thousand Pounds of Tobacco, of this amount the MADISON HOUSE sold One Million Twelve Thousand Pounds at a Higher Average Than We Had at Same Time Last Year and Leading this market, for which we are truly grateful to the tobacco growers of this and adjoining counties. We know from figures that we have secured more per pound for your tobacco, than has been received at any other house, figures speak for themselves. If then we have sold two thirds of the tobacco on this market, we take it that it means that we have pleased two thirds of the growers, who have entrusted their sales to us. And we pledge you to always do our best to please you, both in prices, kind treatment and correct weights. We sold over our floors one day last week 156,000 pounds of tobacco at a general average of $13.31 which we consider fine. As we predicted before the holidays, our market opened firm with a higher tendency for the better grades, while poorer grades have not suffered, the following are among the best prices obtained. Hugh Galeys 2680 pounds at an average of $19.91 per pound, Ashford Million 4000, at 18cts, T. J. Curtis & Son about 4000 pounds at $18.10. Simmons & Brodus 2130 lbs at $17.10.

The Madison House is the Pioneer Loose Leaf House in this city Has Been Under the Same Management for the Four Years we have been in business, this argues that our experience has been and will continue to be of assistance to you in securing better prices for your tobacco and for which you pay not a cent. Our facilities for getting your tobacco off the floors are the best that can be had, and we ask you to be patient, and we will be able to take care of all the tobacco, that our friends wish us to handle for them. Our house will be open day and night and Sales Every Day. Thanking you again for your business and wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year, we are very gratefully,

MERGER NOW POSSIBLE

Warring Factions of United American Insurance Company Bury the Hatchet.

Frankfort, Ky.—Peace has been brought about between the two factions warring for control of the United American Fire Insurance Company, of this city, and, according to the best information, the way cleared for ratification by the stockholders of the proposed merger with the Henry Clay Fire Insurance Company, of Lexington, at their meeting on January 26.

Libel suits, aggregating $51,000, filed by Charles E. Dexter and the American Finance Company against the United American Insurance Company and its president, H. M. Froman, were ordered dismissed as settled by the plaintiffs.

President Froman announced that the directors of the United American held proxies for more than $145,000 worth of the stock of the company to vote favorably on the merger, more than $40,000 above the amount necessary for its consummation. The opposition, President Froman said, had mustered only about $5,000 worth of proxies, but with the controversy between Dexter and the American Finance Company and the United American amicably adjusted the opposition to the merger had disappeared.

Lexington, Ky.—Stanley Milward, aged fifty-one, a prominent citizen of Lexington and widely known as a Republican and Odd Fellow throughout the state, fell to his death through a freight elevator shaft at the undertaking establishment of W. R. Milward &amp; Sons, of which he is a member. He was on the third floor of the building superintending the removal of some furniture, and had just sent the elevator to the first floor when the accident occurred. Earlier in the morning he had experienced dizziness, attributed to indigestion resulting from a trip to the mountains.

He had been treasurer of Lexington and was at one time a member of the state board of control for charitable institutions.

He was a prominent Odd Fellow, Mason and Elk, and was for a number of years Brigadier General of the State Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias. He was at one time president of the State Association of Undertakers and Embalmers. His funeral was one of the largest seen in Lexington in recent years, the public joining with the orders to which he belonged in doing honor to his memory.

He selected honorary pallbearers and requested that the active pallbearers be chosen from the Odd Fellows Lodge, of which he was a member, and members of the church board.

Editor Saulley having improperly and incorrectly charged us with laying plans and trying to get up a political "mess" in the Eighth District, in self defense, we were compelled to pitch a few small pebbles at our contemporary over the way. Instead of admitting his mistake like a man when caught and shown up, he undertakes to dodge and duck out of it by the flimsy suggestion that we haven't made known our choice for congress. Suppose we haven't? Is that hurting anybody? But what staggered him and shackled him both hand and foot was the two contradictory statements he so easily overlooked. Which was true, "Stanley and Hardin after Helm's scalp" or "So far as known Judge Hardin has taken no open part in the propaganda inaugurated?"

This escapes you now as easily as does the other question that still haunts you. Name that Trust that you have been connecting with the candidacy of Mr. Stanley for the Senate? Will you kindly make reply before he speaks in Stanford? But you did say, we recall that you "did not deem it necessary to reply" to these. Well when we get ready to decide and declare our preference for congress we will in no wise be influenced by the wishes of Judge Hardin, if that is any satisfaction to you. But why are you so pestered about who we will support for congress?

Friends and leaders of Governor Beckham in the Eighth District are not meddling with this Congressional nor any other race, according to your report. Are you one helping to lead the Governor's fight? We do not know how fast you are leading, but you certainly are making a lot of fuss about it. And you, a friend of Mr. Beckham, are not meddling with any other race. Please hold up your innocent little hands. In your recent article did you not advertise as answering Helm's opponents? Is this meddling?

But of course, everybody, and we think Mr. Helm well understood your motive.

Now, come right up and be good, are you not also trying your best to get Mr. Henry Jackson to give up Congressional ambition and seek the Judiciary? Is this meddling? Wonderfully consistent you are, neighbor Saulley?

That will be an interesting speech at the Court House in Stanford next Monday when, Hon. A. O. Stanley undertakes to set his public record right before the people of Lincoln County. He, with those who know him well, think that the Interior Journal has grossly misrepresented his position to its readers on many public questions and the Congressman from the Second District is at his best in handling such a state of affairs. He has been able to cope with all comers and without apology, since he has been in Congress and as the Editor of the Interior Journal has had his day, it will be Mr. Stanley's turn next Monday. Editor Saulley will doubtless get excused from his arduous duties at Frankfort and be on hand to hear what is said. The recent newspaper controversy, in which Mr. Saulley has been so conspicuous by reason of his attacks upon the candidacy of Mr. Stanley has whetted the interest of the public, and from curiosity, if not otherwise a large crowd will doubtless be on hand to hear the gifted Congressman draw a word photograph of his unrelenting political enemy in this speech.

Did we make an entirely false statement against Editor Saulley in our words reminding him of his attacks upon Congressman Ben Johnson, while a candidate for Governor, because he was a Catholic? Perhaps that little note was sent at our neighbor with too much force, for it seems to have brought the blood. We are not yet convinced that our statements are so far from the truth.

You have a record of what you did say. Now, would it not look a good deal better for the Editor to get down his files and reprint what he did say and let the public judge, rather than speak so harshly as to intimidate us? A reprint of that article attacking Mr. Johnson will relieve us to some extent at least. You have the evidence, produce it and let the public judge between us.

Who Has?

The Editor of the Interior Journal comes with a bold denial that in a Phone message he denied to Mr. Owen McIntyre that he sent the famous dispatch to the Post.

Well, Mr. McIntyre says that you denied it and you say you did not. Since we have not heard of the Editor of the Danville Advocate incorrectly and deceptively datelining "a live political story" to the Post or any other paper or endeavoring to put the Boys on a hunt for any political dope circulated around, we must leave it to the public to decide:—Who's Who?

Week Of Prayer.

Alternating with the different churches each night, the week of prayer which began last Monday night, has proven very helpful and each meeting is well attended.

Our Picture Gallery.

Our back page contains pictures of most of our new County officers elect. Look at them and see if you don't think we have placed our County in the hands of men that will do honor to themselves and be a credit to the community. Here's to you boys, may your administration be all that could be hoped for.

Second School Term.

Examinations will be held at the school next week as the closing exercises of the first term. The second term begins on Monday January 19th, which will be the proper time to enter all children that are not now in school. It is very important to have the child start at the beginning of these terms as it is much better for the child and a great help to the teacher. Start your children Monday the 19th.

Postmasters Salary May Be Increased Here.

Mr. W. T. West, our accommodating postmaster, informs us that the heavy increase in his office in the past quarter has almost doubled any previous quarter. We will predict now that the salary of the office here will be increased to $1700 before another year rolls 'round. Nor would it surprise us if we are not in the second class by the time we get into our new government building not many years hence.

Dr. Burnett's Sale.

A large crowd attended the sale of Dr. Wm. Burnett last Tuesday at his farm on Richmond pike. Everything sold unusually well and bidding was spirited throughout the sale. Capt. Am Bourne was seen at his best as an auctioneer and was untiring in his efforts to make everything bring its full value. He reports the following sales and prices: brood sows from $16 to $25, shoats about 75 cents, old timothy hay, $23, clover hay, $19 to $20, baled straw $4.50 to $5.00 a ton, corn, $4.50 to $5.00 a barrel, pair 8 year old mules, $275, pair 2 yr. old mules $250, one yearling mule, $152.50, grey mare $87.50, 6 yr. old bay mare $192.50, ten yr. old mare, $56, brown mare, 9 yr. old, $187.50. All farming implements sold high. The sale was made on a credit of six months.

Good Horses From Garrard.

The show stable of Mat S. Cohen, was re-enforced the past week by two good three-gaited patterns, which the Lexington exhibitor selected from the lot that Billy Burton had on hand at his Lancaster barns.

Cohen is very sweet on a bay mare by Highland Gay, dam by Wilson's King and thinks he never had as good prospect with as little work as she has received. Burton selected her a short while back while on a buying trip in Montgomery county, which, judging from her breeding, was the logical guess as her birthplace.

Highland Gay already has a very enviable record as a sire of three-gaited horses and this mare is likely to add materially to his already good record. She comes in the under 15.2 hands class and promises to be a hot contender in the "little classes."

The other new one secured by Cohen is a chestnut gelding whose pedigree is as yet untraced but which shows evidence of being a saddle bred horse and but, for the mare, would look like an exceptionally good prospect.

If he grows out as he now promises it is very likely that he will accompany the other Cohen horses when he goes to the fairs and horse shows. Cohen is on the lookout for some other horses and will be likely to add some to his list soon.—Farmers Home Journal.

The Danville Advocate Hits Saulley A Solar Plexus Thud.

The Lancaster Record and Kentucky Advocate, after repeated efforts finally succeeded in smoking out the author of the fake political story sent from Stanford and published in the Louisville Post under a Danville date line. Our old friend Shelton Saulley, admits that he wrote the article and defends himself at length in another article which appeared in the Post Saturday night. The editor of the Advocate is the Danville correspondent of the Post and objected to being placed in the light of having written something which he did not write. Editor Saulley contends that his statements were authentic and accurate in every detail.

The article on its face was intended as a boost for Congressman Helm. In other words, it placed the Danville correspondent in the attitude of being a warm supporter and great political friend of Stanford's "tall sycamore". That in itself is a base deception, libel and fraud. We would be perfectly justified in bringing suit for $100,000 damages against Saulley and if he were not so young and inexperienced we would put it to him.

The charge is made in an artistic way that Judge Charles A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, owns and controls Hon. Joseph Robinson, editor of the Lancaster Record, and by a simple twist of the wrist can cause Joe to do the editorial tango or Louisiana glide. To those who know Joe Robinson, that charge is deceptive, slanderous and the basest sort of falsehood. There is not a more honorable man in the Eighth Congressional district than Joe Robinson. On the other hand, Judge Hardin is not the kind of man who would control his fellow citizens if he had the power. So in that charge two slanders were committed at a single blow.

By the same line of visionary reasoning and theorizing, Gov. J. C. W. Beckham owns Saulley and is responsible for what is published in the Interior Journal. As truly as it can be said that Hardin is responsible for what is published in the Lancaster Record, fully as truly can it be said that Gov. Beckham was responsible for the vicious attack made on Congressman Ben Johnson by the Interior Journal when he was a candidate for Governor. The Catholic Democrats were insulted and the greatest damage was done the party. Friends of Mr. Beckham have expressed considerable surprise at his having picked Mr. Saulley for his leader in the Eighth Congressional district, but none have been pigheaded enough to insinuate that Beckham was responsible for the invidious attack on Ben Johnson, although Johnson and Beckham are political enemies.

Then, the article states that the Stanley followers are trying to induce Hon. Henry Jackson to make the race for Congress. That is true as far as it goes. But Jackson's strongest support is coming from the Beckham leaders. In Boyle county every Beckham leader is for Jackson. The Beckham leaders in Mercer county have been very insistent in their demand of Jackson to make the race. These represent both the friends and enemies of Judge Hardin. Beckham men in Garrard, Jessamine, and McCreary men in Madison have united in calling upon Mr. Jackson to make the race. While Mr. Jackson has not been mentioned in connection with the judgeship race, we wish to pause to say that he is as eminently qualified for the bench as he is to serve in Congress.

Among other things, Mr. Saulley states in his article that Judge Hardin has injured himself as a candidate for Circuit Judge by declaring for his old friend and relative, Stanley, for United States Senator.

Saulley certainly is not familiar with the voters of this judicial district. They do not select a man for the bench because he happened to support or oppose this or that man, but on the basis of his ability to fill the office. Things will have come to a poor pass when circuit judges are chosen without regard to their fitness but because they supported or opposed some particular man in their own party.

If Henry Jackson makes the race for Congress it is a settled fact that he will not take part in the senatorial race but will run his own race upon his own merits. Saulley attempts to leave the impression that he will line up with the Stanley faction in order to gain the Beckham faction for his friend Helm, who placed his, Saulley's, name at the top of the long list of men he endorsed for the Danville Collectorship. The fact is that Beckham, McCreary and Stanley men are uniting on Jackson and calling on him to run. To have attempted to injure a prospective candidate by such false methods is nothing less than deception and the worst sort of faking. The voters of Central Kentucky are too intelligent to give heed to such nonsensical vapors as the editor of the Interior Journal is trying to palm off. Friend Saulley, we implore you to wake up from your dreaming.

Rural Education.

The following, which is clipped from the Lexington Leader was written by Mr. E. H. Faulkner of the State College of Agriculture. Mr. Faulkner recently delivered two lectures at the Buena Vista Consolidated schools.

"There are few things about which so much has been said and so little done as in the matter of rural education. If the annual cost to the State of our criminal population could be used for one year in a systematic organization of our school, the next generation would find little use for jails and criminal courts.

No one is really educated beyond the limits of his observation and experience. It is safe to say, then, that the great majority of educators and people of influence in such matters know very little about actual conditions in the average rural school. It is one thing to boast of our great common school system, and quite another to describe how the thing is actually done. The task set for the average country school teacher is that of giving proper instruction to about fifty boys and girls, six to eighteen years of age. And this instruction must include always eight or ten branches, often more. Of course it is an impossible task, and everybody knows it.

Some communities are waking up to the situation and are taking steps to provide real schools under conditions where it is possible for teachers to accomplish something. There are now in the State a number of "consolidated" schools. These schools are real, business-like places,—veritable beehives of knowledge. One example will serve to illustrate.

Last Friday the writer went as a representative of the experiment station to speak to the farmers at Buena Vista Consolidated Schools in Garrard County. This community is off the railroad and is a splendid expanse of Kentucky Blue Grass farms. Last year there were three small schools in this community,—all struggling along doing the best they could. This year the same children attend one big school and get much more good from it, because their teachers are not overworked.

The school building is of brick, two stories, so built that it can easily be doubled in size when it becomes necessary. There are plenty of windows, first class equipment, a library, steam heat, and a good cistern, just complete. The view from the windows is unexcelled. One can't help noticing the great difference between the black roofs and sparrows' nests of the city and the blue grass fields of the country, as a landscape.

The building is not the most important part of the scheme. There are wagons provided to bring the children to school in the morning and carry them home again at night. These are covered and may be closed completely by storm curtains. Each is neatly painted and bears the name of its route. This arrangement provides a convenient and attractive meeting place for other purposes as well as school. The women of the community make use of the building for social meetings. The library is soon to have a fine lot of Agricultural literature from the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Then the men will find the library a profitable place to spend some spare time.

This school is going to cost enormously. The men who have built it realize this more than anyone else can. But the advantage of such a school to the community can never be estimated except in the better citizens and house keepers it trains."

Geoch Dunn.

Mr. James Lytle-Dunn, a well known and popular young farmer of Marksburg and Miss Elizabeth Katherine Gooch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gooch, of Lincoln, were married at the home of the bride Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, Rev. F. M. Tindler, of this city, performing the ceremony. Only the members of the families witnessed the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunn left immediately for Louisville and after their return in about ten days will be at home on the Lexington pike near Marksburg. They are both well known and very popular and their host of friends wish them much happiness.

Don't be a doormat. The homely rug on which people wipe their dirty shoes has a place; but you are a human being with a spine and a heart and a soul. Doormats must not be on your this year's calendar.

Whatever has befallen you in the past, remember that there is another chance. The new year is on the threshold. Open the door and smile a welcome to it. It is as rich in hope and possibility as you care to make it. The happy new year is up to you!

If you have gossiped either over the back fence or over the tea cups, here is your opportunity to make a change for the better. Of course you cannot recall the unkind word that has gone on with snowball proclivities, growing to unrecognizable proportions. But you can resolve to guard your tongue and to think twice before you speak once.

Carry into the new year only the choicest thoughts and inspirations. As in the olden days when men approached the Parthenon they cleansed their persons and arrayed themselves in white robes before entering that glorious temple, so cleanse your garments from transgression, clothe yourself with aspirations. Farewell to the past! Welcome and all hail to the future.

Nine Classes Who Do A Town Harm.

The men who do a town more harm than good may be classed as follows: First, those who oppose improvement. Second, those who run it down to strangers. Third, those who never advertise their business. Fourth, those who distrust public-spirited men. Fifth, those who show no hospitality to any one. Sixth, those who hate to see others make money. Seventh, those who oppose every movement that doesn't originate with themselves. Eighth, those who put on long faces when a stranger speaks of locating in their town. Ninth, those who oppose every public enterprise, which does not appear of personal benefit to themselves.

THE SWINEHERD.

Warm hog houses are cheaper than corn, and cold takes off fat. Damp, dirty bedding and healthy pigs will not be found in the same house.

Don't allow the hogs to sleep in or around the stable stalls—unless you want them in the barn.

A weak solution of a common cool tar dip sprinkled about the hog house will prevent foul odors and help to preserve the general health of the animals.

Too much feed and too little exercise are generally the causes of thumps. The remedy is evident.

Disease germs and parasites find their kindest harbor in filthy clean hogs are generally healthy hogs, free of parasites. Cleanliness costs little but effort.

A GOOD FARROWING PEN.

Small Portable Huts Best For the Sow and Litter.

A farrowing pen made from fencing boards, light and portable, five feet square, is one of the handy arrangements on our farm and indispensable in the National Stockman.

This pen may be set up anywhere on the farm—in a shed, on the barn floor or in the basement, in the open barn lot about the straw stacks or wherever comfort exists for the advent of the youngsters.

The dam can get no nesting material save what we give her and cannot smother her pigs in the litter. We have each of our A shaped hog bunks built from matched barn siding with open front door, and fitted in the top ridge of each is a hook upon which we hang a lighted lantern, excluding all frosted air from the interior. Over the doors we tack temporarily a piece of burlap with a light piece of board at the bottom, which holds the curtain in place.

The dam can go out for feed and the youngsters are not exposed to the chill winds. On sunny days these curtains are fastened up and the sunshine admitted. Dry nesting material adds greatly to the health of the dam and the thrift of the early litters and is worth while giving.

MILITIA CALLED OUT IN LETCHER

ATTEMPTED ELECTION OF TREASURER BRINGS ABOUT ACUTE SITUATION.

FIVE ARE PUT UNDER DOND

Governor Relieves Troops From Duty, Challenging Authority of County Judge to Call Out Company—Feeling Believed to Have Subsided.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.
Whitesburg, Ky.—Rivalry between friends of banks having candidates for treasurer of Letcher county, to be elected by the fiscal court, created a situation so acute that the local company of militia was called out. In his order for military intervention, Judge John Fitzpatrick stated that "an unlawful assembly" was in possession of the court house and attempting to hold a special session of the county court, and that peace officers had refused to obey his orders.
Warrants charging confederating and intimidation were issued by Judge Fitzpatrick and bonds were required of two magistrates, a former county judge and two other prominent citizens. The guards took possession of the order book of the court.
Later in the day Judge Fitzpatrick received a message from Governor McCreary directing that the militia be relieved of duty, and saying that a county judge had authority to assemble a posse but was without authority to call out the state guard. Feeling has subsided, and further trouble is not expected.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES HANDS.

Lexington, Ky.—The syndicate which bought the Lexington Leader has taken charge of the paper, with Harry Giovannoli as editor. In the last issue of the paper under her ownership, Mrs. Anna T. Roberts, widow of its founder, Samuel J. Roberts, who has, since Mr. Roberts' death last spring, been the editor and publisher, wrote in a parting editorial: "The Leader was the life and the ambition of its founder, in which the present owner shared. She came into its life a few months after its birth, a bride, and leaves it tonight a widow. For twenty-five years side by side, the two watched the progress, at first dubious of its success, but afterwards happy as it surmounted every obstacle. It was not loved because it became remunerative. It was loved for itself, for the purposes for which it was founded, and for the things it accomplished. It stood for purity of elections, for better government and for the great common people. Its columns were open and free to all who wished to reach the public ear. Like a child, it was nourished with the best of care, no matter what the cost."

MAN OF MYSTERY DEAD.

Louisville, Ky.—Louisville's man of mystery, known as George Gibson, for 20 years employed at the city hospital, died there without drawing aside the curtain which he drew about his past life. Twenty years ago he was a patient at the institution. As he convalesced he took an interest in work about the institution and was so faithful that he was continued in his place despite shake-ups due to political changes. Courteous to all he refused to tell much of his past life. He did say that he was 89 years old; that he had lived in Scotland, and had served as a Union soldier in the civil war, and had two daughters and a son in Chicago.

HAGGIN BUYS MORE PROPERTY.

Lexington, Ky.—It was authoritatively given out that James B. Haggin, of New York, had, through agents, purchased the property belonging to Mrs. M. E. Clark and the Lyons estate in Main street. He now owns more than half of this block, which is situated in the heart of the city.

ATTACKED BY RATS.

Ludlow, Ky.—Attacked by large rats that had been driven by fire from the basement of the building in which was a cafe, Thomas Morrissey, former policeman, had to beat them off. The rodents swarmed about his bare feet and leaped up at him in their mad scramble.

KILLED EN ROUTE TO CHURCH.

Elizabethtown, Ky.—Leo Branger, a farmer of near Rineyville, this county, was instantly killed by a south-bound Illinois Central train, between his home and St. John, where he was en route to attend church.

ROAD BOND ISSUE FAVORED.

Bowling Green, Ky.—At a banquet given by Judge H. H. Denhardt to the incoming and retiring county officials, the question of bonding the county for the purpose of aiding in the work of road building throughout the county was indorsed unanimously. If the bond issue is supported at the special election which will be called for March of this year, there will probably be a commission of citizens appointed to have charge of the apportionment of the money.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson II.—First Quarter, For Jan. 11, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke x, 1-16—Memory Verses, 1, 2—Golden Text, Luke x, 2—Commentary by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The sending forth of the twelve is recorded in Matt. x, Mark vi and Luke ix. The sending of the seventy is told only in our lesson chapter. Both companies were sent by two and two, as lambs among wolves, and they were to preach the kingdom of God and heal the sick (verses 1, 3, 9; ix, 2; Mark vi, 7; Matt. x, 7, 8, 16). The reason given in each case for sending them is the same—harvest great, laborers few. The command to pray is also the same, "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that He would send forth laborers into His harvest" (verse 2; Matt. ix, 36-38).

Matthew says that He saw the multitudes as sheep having no shepherd and He was moved with compassion on them. Believers are expected to have the mind of Christ, to manifest the life of Jesus, to be a willing and obedient people, to live to give the Gospel to every creature, but where is the compassion of Jesus for the shepherdless multitudes seen, and how many are willing to be sheep in the midst of wolves, hated by the world for His sake (John xv, 18, 19).

The twelve were not to go to gentiles or Samaritans, but only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel; the seventy were to go before Him face into every city and place whither He himself would come, but since His resurrection the command is to go into all the world (Matt. x, 5, 6; Luke x, 1; Mark xvi, 15). After they were told to pray the Lord to send forth laborers they were told to go themselves (verse 3), and we cannot honestly ask the Lord to send others unless we are ready to say, "Here am I; send me" (Isa. vi, 8).

Isaiah saw the Lord upon a throne and heard the voice of the Lord; he had the assurance of inquiry taken away and sin purged; he saw in vision the earth full of His glory, and when the triumphant God said "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" he was ready to reply, "Behold me; send me."

It was the vision of the glory of the Lord, that constrained Isaiah. It was seeing and hearing the risen Christ when on his way to Damascus that changed Saul of Tarsus from a persecutor and murderer to a most devoted follower of Jesus of Nazareth and made him blind and deaf to all but Jesus for the rest of his life (Acts xxiii, 6, 11). The Lord Jesus said to him, "I send thee to open their eyes, to turn from darkness to light, from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and inheritance" (Acts xxvi, 17, 18).

One of the great words in our lesson is, "Behold, I send you forth" (verse 3). He chose the twelve that they might be with Him and that He might send them forth (Mark iii, 14). To Gideon He said: "Go in this thy might. * * * Have not I sent thee?" (Judg. vi, 14). Over thirty times in the Gospel by John He speaks of Himself as sent by the Father, and after the resurrection He said to the Apostles, "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you" (John xx, 21).

When we go in His name, with His message, sent by Him, we may always go with quickness and confidence. When on His business we need have no anxiety about the whereof, for He will surely see to it.

He said to the twelve: "When I send you without purse and scrip and shoes, hocked ye anything? And they said nothing" (Luke xiii, 28). We are to go preaching the Gospel by Jesus Christ, the power that He made by the blood of His cross (Col. i, 20). We are to relate in His presence with us, and that He is in us, and considers all treatment of us, good or bad, as done to Himself and to the Father who sent Him (verse 16). As the responsibility of those who heard the twelve and the seventy was greater than the responsibility of the people of Sodom and Tyre and Sidon, so their judgment would be heavier. What about those who today hear and do not heed? Consider II Thess. i, 7-9.

The seventy went forth as command and returned with a good report, saying that even demons were subject to His name. His remark concerning Satan falling from heaven probably points on to Rev. xii, 9, 10.

How wonderful His words, power over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall by any means hurt you (verse 19). What do we know of it in our experience? He does not say that we shall not suffer; He says plainly that we shall (John xvi, 33). It may be in some form or other, the fiery furnace or the lions' den, but no hurt was found upon either of those four because of their faith in God (Dan. iii, 25; vi, 23).

Note well, the greatest cause of rejoicing, names written in heaven, and compare with verse 20, Phil. iv, 3, and consider the awful fate of all whose names are not in the book of life according to Rev. xx, 15. If only we truly receive the Lord Jesus, putting all our trust as sinners in His precious blood shed for us, we may rest in the assurance that according to His word we have eternal life, have become children of God, and have the forgiveness of sins and can never perish (John i, 12; iii, 16; v, 24; vi, 37, 47).

The Womans Club

(Edited By The Womans Club)

The subject of the last meeting "The women of the Bible", the child in art, and Madonnas should be a claim upon interest and a popular meeting. Child life, womanhood and motherhood appeal to all. Art has produced so many and such varied representations of children and mothers, the leaders can make a presentation of exhaustiveness in the short time of one meeting, only a few characteristic examples in different groups can be given. Child in art, will be discussed and all the types classified from the ideal type to the Christ-child, which has been the highest type of all artists. The club members are requested to respond to the roll call by giving their favorite picture and a reason why it appeals most to them.

An interesting story comes from a little Western city telling of a teacher in the public schools who, after thirty years of service, retired from her labors and left her life's savings to the school fund. For over a generation she had exerted her influence in uplifting the boys and girls of the community, all the time practicing small economies that she might increase the benefit that her heart prompted and which the town has accepted with reverent acknowledgment.

The fact that she gave her money to the public schools indicates that she loved her work, but the fact that she gave her life to the schools proves it better. The town can never repay to her memory adequate recompense for her sacrifice but she does not need payment. Her life was full of rewards, even tho it closed in pain and sorrow and suffering. These are small things compared to the joy a soul finds in service.

In another Western town, not far removed from the first, died recently a "character," a bachelor who had worked thru the years with little recognition in the social world and apparently with small standing among the leaders of the community's life. His will provided that $50,000, the savings of his lifetime, should build for the town a public library, his gift to the place in which he had humbly toiled.

These incidents are not prodigies, nor are they the doings of eccentrics; they are types of a growing sentiment in this country that the town in which we live deserves from us some return for the joy it bestows year after year upon us. The East, with its long-established families, its possession of untold wealth, has known this secret for decades; the South, rich in tradition and prestige, realizes it; the West is just coming into the satisfaction of fulfillment of the duty toward one's neighbors.

A town of tenants and of landlords is a misnomer and a failure; a town of homeowners is one great family, in which each owes to the other something of courtesy and of return for benefits received. It is doubtful if the dweller on city boulevards realizes the sentiment that animates the resident of the country town. The mutual dependence, the community helpfulness, the thorough understanding of the business and social status of one's neighbors, all these tend toward a sentiment of respect and admiration for the town that finds expression in reciprocal deeds of usefulness.

After all our attitude toward our neighbors depends upon the view with which we consider the community as a whole, if it be to our mind merely a place in which to make money, an opportunity to reap financial benefits because people must pay us tribute, a narrow and unsympathetic picture is certain to present itself and the result is the unsaved citizen who squeezes his neighbors' purses and blights their lives that he may thrive. If the viewpoint be one of mutual respect, if the town be looked upon as one great family in which the uplift of all means the advantage of each member of the community, if a spirit of helpfulness be abroad, if good cheer and courtesy reign, there is radiated from the town a wholesome, generous kindness that makes it what the Westerners term, "a good town to live in." The difference between a town good to "live in" and one good merely for business purposes should need no discussion; the difference ought to be patent to the most casual observer. Living is one thing and business another of so different caliber that there is no comparison between them. The town that goes in for business alone makes the same mistake as the individual who pursues his life under the false impression that there is something higher toward which he should aspire than a bank account; the town that goes in for mutual interest, that tries to inculcate a spirit of good cheer and frowns on bickering and bad feeling among neighbors, is on the road toward good living and is in a position to invite population on the best ground of all—that it is "a good place to live in."

We owe a great deal to our town, to our neighbors. From our surroundings comes the joy of living, and the greater our return of goodwill the greater shall be our reward.

Classics in Old Play.

Now that we come to think of it, Bartley Campbell's great melodrama, "The White Slave," which a grand jury never went to see, wasn't a regular white slave play at all. But it did contain two classics: "Strike, death is welcome!" and "Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake!"—New York Press.

Schoolboy on Soap.
From a schoolboy's essay on soap: "Soap is a kind of stuff made in cakes what you can't eat. It smells good and tastes awful. Soap always tastes worst when you get it in your eye. Father says Eskimos don't use soap; I wish I was an Eskimo."

Fruit in Glass.
A housewife who was puzzled to know how she could put fruit in the refrigerator and not have it scent the butter and milk by the side of it, caught the idea of emptying out the basket into glass jars and putting on the tops.

Bat the Enemy of Mosquitoes.
Recent investigations indicate that the greater part of the diet of the bat consists of mosquitoes, and advantage is being taken of this fact in ridding communities in Texas and other southern states of the mosquito pest.

Recognized English Holidays.
There are now twenty-six days in the year recognized as legitimate occasions for holidays in most cities of England. These are in addition to the weekly half-holidays observed on Wednesdays or Saturdays. An effort is being made to lessen the number of holidays and to bring those retained into more systematic order.

KENTUCKY HILLS TREASURE-TROVE

NEW RECORD FOR PRODUCTION OF COAL SHOWN BY SUMMARY.

EASTERN FIELD TO FORE

Geological Survey Report Sets Out Enormous Riches That Have Been Brought to Surface, and Forecasts Millions More.

Western Newspaper Union News Service, Louisville, Ky.—The report of the United States Geological Survey on the production of non-metallic minerals in Kentucky is a tale of hundreds of millions of dollars having been taken out of treasure-crowded hills in 1912 and a forecast of billions more. How the state teems with coal, coke, limestone, spar, natural gas and various other valuable yields of the soil; how Eastern Kentucky has developed during the past year; how Kentucky broke the world's coal record—all these things are told in the large volume of over 1,200 pages, a summary of which has been received here. One of the most remarkable statements is that detailing how Eastern Kentucky coal mines, in 1912, for the first time, exceeded the yield of those in Western Kentucky. The survey experts declare that the western field will never regain the ascendancy.

The production in short tons is shown to have been:

1911—Total quantity, 14,049,703; total value, $14,008,458; average price per ton, 99c.

1912—Total quantity, 16,490,521; total value, $16,854,207; average price per ton, $1.02.

Rank of Kentucky—Fifth in coal production; seventh in coal value in 1912.

Two Great Coal Areas.

In speaking of Kentucky as a coal state the survey says in part: "Kentucky is the only one of the coal-producing states which has within its borders areas belonging to any two of the great coal fields. The eastern counties of the state are underlain by the coal beds of the great Appalachian Mountain system, extending entirely across the state in a north-east-southwest direction, while the southern limits of the central or eastern interior field are found in the more northern counties of the western part of the state.

The total area underlain by coal in the eastern counties of Kentucky is estimated at 10,270 square miles, and the coal-bearing areas in the western part of the state are estimated to contain 6,400 square miles, or somewhat more than one-half of that of the eastern part. Up to the close of 1911 the larger part of the production of the state had been from the western district, but as a result of extensive developments in Harlan, Johnson, Letcher and Pike counties, the larger part of the coal production in 1912 was from the eastern part of the state. There is little probability of the western district again gaining the ascendancy.

New Record for State.

"The production of coal in Kentucky established a new record in 1912 with a total of 16,490,521 short tons, an increase of 2,440,818 tons, or 17.4 per cent over 1911, and of 1,857,202 tons over the maximum output of 1910. The value increased $2,845,749, or 29.3 per cent, from $14,008,458 in 1911 to $16,854,207 in 1912.

"Kentucky participated in the general advance in prices, the average value per ton being $1.02 in 1912 against 99 cents in 1911. The increased production in 1912 was due chiefly to the new development in Eastern Kentucky, for although the western counties exhibited a gain of 712,787 tons, and the largest gain in any one county was in the western field, the total gain in the eastern part of the state was 1,728,031 tons, or over 1,000,000 tons more than the gain in the western counties. Moreover, the western district did not reach by over 450,000 tons the record made in 1910, while in the eastern counties the gain over 1910 was nearly 2,340,000 tons.

Shelbyville, Ky.—W. B. and J. H. Dale's farm of 160 acres was sold to Dr. William Burnett, of Garrard county, for $140 an acre. The farm is located on the Smithfield pike, three and a half miles north of Shelbyville.

Dr. Rout gave up his active ministry several years ago on account of his failing health and was made pastor emeritus. He was long president of the board of trustees of Central university and was a leading factor in uniting Centre college and Central university. He is 81 years old.

By A. D. WILDER

My brother Tom was killed at the battle of Shiloh. We were in the same company and at the time he was shot was repelling one of those demented-mer attacks General Johnston hurled against us like blows upon an anvil. I saw Tom turn around and fall on his face. There was a pang, and then I was like a man. The Confederates were right on us, and we were fighting them hand to hand. I forgot danger and poked and chided with my musket, fighting for vengeance.

They said afterward that my "bravery" held the others, and we drove them off. Then I took Tom in my arms and carried him to the rear. They came at us again and again, and every time they came I fought them more fiercely. They did not give me time to cool off. But when the sun set on the last day of the fight I lay on the ground physically used up, and sorrow took the place of revenge.

When the term of enlistment for my regiment expired we were discharged. Many of the boys re-enlisted, but I did not. I thought I had seen enough of war. But a war fever is like any other disease—it must run its course. Whenever I heard a drum beat, a distant shot, the sound of martial music, I grew restless with a desire to be again transpiring, fighting, in among the living and the dead. I resisted as long as I could, then gave in and enlisted for another "three years or during the war."

During this enlistment I was with the army marching to the sea. One evening soon after sunset I was marching with my company when I felt ill and was obliged to drop out of the ranks. I sat down beside the road, and after awhile, feeling better, I got up and staggered on. In the west, above where the sun had set, the twilight still lingered, but about me was the verge of darkness. Suddenly I was conscious of some one walking beside me. I was too tired and ill to be especially interested in who was there. I supposed him to be some straggler like myself who was trying to get somewhere, and that he would soon go ahead of or drop behind me. But he did neither. He kept just so far away from me and a little to my rear. I remember once or twice looking for him, but either on account of the darkness or because he was at the time farther away from me or for some other reason I didn't see him, or if I did, it was but indistinctly.

But somehow it got into my head that my brother Tom was beside me. If I had been asleep I would have said that the feeling was something like a dream, but I was awake. Moreover, I didn't see Tom. I only felt his presence. I felt so ill and so exhausted that I didn't concern myself about this presence of the dead. My sensibilities were at a very low ebb, and it was all I could do to get on. I doubt if even I had seen Tom walking beside me and he had talked with me I would have had any ability to exercise the faculty of wonder.

However, my consciousness of the presence of my brother remained with me till I saw a campfire to my left and the silhouettes of some men between it and me. I shivered off, and as I did it seemed to me that the figure beside me parted from me. I staggered up to the persons about the fire and fell on the ground.

They were making coffee, and one of them held a tin cup full of it to my mouth and poured what seemed like a new life down my throat. I tried both coffee and whiskey for a bracer from fatigue, and found the coffee infinitely preferable. Under the stimulant I felt refreshed and lying flat on the ground with my head on a pile of dirt I slept till morning. Then after another cup of coffee and some hardtack I felt strong enough to hunt up my command. While doing so I passed some Confederate prisoners. One of them addressed me.

"I say, young man, who was that with you last night?"

"What do you mean?" I asked. I had never seen the fellow before and couldn't make out what he was driving at.

"Just before dark some of us were hanging on the rear of you uns, laying for stragglers. I saw you drop out. But it wouldn't be safe to do it till the column got out of earshot. When you got up I shadowed you, and was drawing ahead on you when another man got in between you and me. I hadn't calculated on any one else being there and didn't like to shoot because I didn't know who he was, for fear I might kill one of our boys."

"He kind of flickered in what little light there was between you and me, specially whenever I raised my gun to shoot. What made me curious about him was that he kept getting in my way whenever I got you against the sky where I could get a good aim at you. Who was he anyway?"

"There wasn't anybody walking beside me that I know of," I replied. What else could I say? I felt as sure as if I knew that Tom had protected me. But I had no intention of telling a stranger who confessed that he had tried to kill me that I had been saved by a ghost. He would have laughed at me or thought I was daff.

One thing this experience did for me during the rest of the war, I had no feeling of fear. I didn't believe I could be killed.

REQUIREMENTS FOR SUCCESS

Clean, Dry Place With Plenty of Fresh Air and Sunshine Among Essentials in Wintering Sheep.

There are four very essential things necessary in wintering a flock of breeding ewes. The first is a clean, dry place with an abundance of air and all the sunshine possible. The house or shed must be sufficiently warm for the lambs to do well from the start, should they come in March or February, but there must not be a hothouse warmth.

The second essential is pure water, and plenty of it. Sheep that eat snow for water will be found in a very different condition from those which have access to water at all times. Remember that a sheep drinks but little at a time, and often. A flock having pure water is seldom found with parasites, the worst enemy with which we contend.

The third essential is feeding. The writer, says an exchange, has obtained the best results by feeding hay and clover mixed. The sheep like this very much, and if the mixture is put into the barn in good shape they will more than thrive on it. Sheep relish a good corn fodder, and it should be given to them at least once a day.

About six weeks before the ewes are due to lamb they should be fed a mixture of bran one part and oats two parts.

BREEDING STOCK FOR DAIRY

Cow is Machine to Convert Food Into Milk—Should Possess Large Udder and Strong Constitution.

In selecting dairy cattle the real test must be the scales and the Babcock tester. The cow is a machine to convert food into milk; thus she must have a large middle and a strong constitution to insure the best results. She must also have a large udder, large milk wells, large crooked milk veins and good-sized teats.

Her head should be clean and angular in appearance, with the eyes standing out prominently. The neck should be rather long and lean; the shoulders pointed and the backbone rather prominent. The skin should be loose and soft to the touch. In selecting herd bulls either mature animals which have already demonstrated their worth as sires or younger animals from high-testing dams and sires only should be used.

The best and surest results will always follow the use of a mature sire which has sired heifers with good records. A good dairy bull should be kept until he is twelve or fifteen years old; in fact, as long as he is a sire. Real good sires are so rare that when we do find one he should die only of old age.

All breeders of dairy cattle should secure yearly tests on each and every cow in the herd. Shorter tests do not really mean very much. It is the cow that stays by her job that is really valuable.
